VOICE LABOR TO

Allen County Public Library 900 Webster Street PO Box 2270 Fort Wayne, IN 46801-2270

> It has been our wish in compiling this the 1928 Ista to preserve for ourselves, and our associates, the phases of our college life which we have thought worthy of our remembrance.

OBLEVIORD

If in the years to come this publication will bring back fond memories and renew old acquaintances we will feel greatly rewarded for our efforts.

1. The College

2. Classes

3. Activities

4. Athletics

5. The Grand Revue

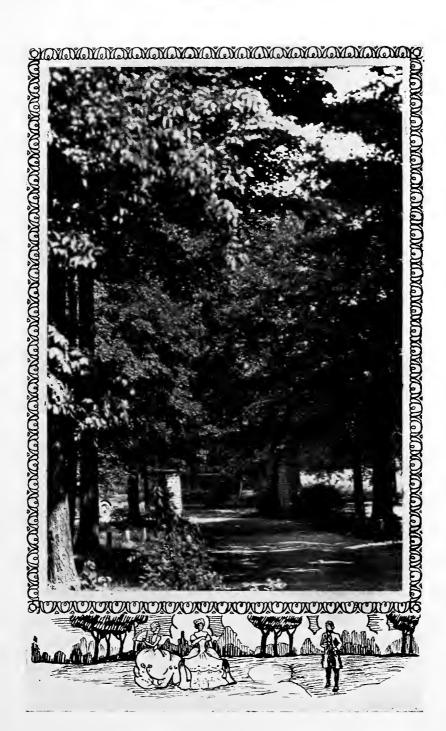

TO the SPIRIT of Bluffton College that is exemplified in the spiritual ideals, intellectual achievements, and the physical endurance set up by our Alma Mater, we the Junior Class dedicate in high esteem the 1sta of 1928.

AND THE RESERVE OF THE OWNER, BUT DE

CHARLEST THE CONTRACTOR

SAMUEL K. MOSIMAN
President
PH. D. University of Halle, Germany
Litt. D Wittenberg College

The first among the men who are guiding Bluffton's career, is Dr. S. K. Mosiman, our president. He serves Bluffton in a capacity that could not well be duplicated. His high ideals and Christian living provides a check for the thoughtless and a stimulus to the thoughtful expressions of youth.

The fact that he can recall his own college days has made lim very popular among the students, who insist upon calling him "Prexy" because he is a "regular fellow". Misfortunes at Bluffton have never left any ill-will, for "Prexy" is always ready to discuss problems and advise the troubled students. His tactful ways are always convincing and sincere, because he has a personal interest in each student.

We believe that his absence last year will eventually contribute towards a longer service in the capacity of first among us, and that he has returned with a still wider sphere of education, which will help make and sustain Bluffton's reputation.

NOAH E. BYERS Dean

B. S. Northwestern University A. M. Harvard University

Every institution, large or small has an impelling force which is necessary to cause it to function and coordinate. In Bluffton Dean N. E. Byers furnishes his share of this force. Through generations of students his leadership has not been questioned.

As dean of the college, it is his duty to deal with problems of discipline. Through the enforcement of rules and the upholding of principles he finds himself in line for much criticism. However, his actions are directed by conscientious decisions and in the end his critics have been converted to his methods. We admire him for his vigor, his intensity, and his stern sense of justice.

He, being a professor of psychology and philosophy, has a deep insight for human nature and the workings of student minds. Certainly, he has a keen mind for he can analyze immediately and accurately all the problems brought before him. He is, indeed, an intimate and propelling force in the college life on our campus.

SENIOR SNEAK DAY

According to tradition set forth by previous graduating classes the Class of '28 through a desire to outdo those who had gone before, gathered their wits together in an attempt to baffle the minds of the underclass men to such an extent that they would grow tired of their false pretentions.

Finally, after great worry their leading genii contrived an idea for a successful ending to their college curricula, in the form of a Sneak Day. It was altogether fitting and proper that they should "sneak". So, following the Findlay basketball game it was thought that the minds of the student body would be preoccupied with the victory that they could notice nothing else. It was the night before the day that comes only one year in four that they hurried into their glad vestments and collected at the house of Kimmel and Bracy Company.

The President of the class went to Lima to direct their bus driver. When he returned he was surprised to find an assemblage of the hosts of underclassmen with deep and thunderous mutterings telling of a coming storm. Queer movements on the part of several anxious sneakers caught and irritated the eyes of a few vigilant Juniors. In their turn the Juniors detained a few of the seniors by means of the "blocking-off" process well known to chemistry students. However, the law was on their side and all could not go awry for their plans had, indeed, been well-laid.

With great presence of intellect the bus driver was ordered to continue without halt. Meanwhile the group was secretly growing behind the dark walls of night. The hosts ebetted those blocked-off and in due time all was in readiness. With sentinels all about, the bus returned and every senior was safely coralled within.

There was little thought of sleep as they rode into Sandusky on the wings of the dawn. Cleveland was their final destination. Here they stole a few hours from Father Time which they squandered in sleep. At eleven o'clock the entire group visited the Federal Reserve Building after which dinner was served. The Misses Amstutz and Lowenberg, etc., had several thrilling escapes from the wheels of recklessly driven machines.

The class held together for a sight-seeing tour through and about the city. Shaker's Heights is the name that appealed to me as being the most interesting place visited. After the party broke up into as many parts as desirable, Kanagy took a group of the fellows to a house of entertainment where each one received his sevnty-five cents worth. The others went to see the Student Prince. There was still another group who went to see the Rosenbluhm aggregation play a Brooklyn team in a eageball game.

On the whole, it was a very educational trip as well as entertaining. The most amusing thing about the entire trip was that some of the students were actually studying on the way back to Bluffton. The return trip was uneventful except for the rising of the new moon and a moderation of temperature.

Upon arriving at Bluffton a few ordered coffee and ice-cream but most of them struck for their beds which, by the way, were left just as they had left them. After hours of sleep and retirement their dream of a successful sneak vacation was history to be found in the annuals of the eollege by succeeding generations.

SOPHOMORE HISTORY

During the middle of last September seventy students, from nearby, the East, the mid-West and the far West, came together in Bluffton; broad smiles and grins, emphatic greetings and hearty hand-shakes were the rule as the members of the Sophomore class met once again after what a looker-on might have mistaken for a ten-year absense. This overflow of joy, however, was excusable, for this was the same group that only a year before left the native heath to experience the newness of college life; to meet a host of strange faces, to live amid the clatter and humdrum of dormitory life, and to be rudely dumped out upon the bare, cold floor in the middle of an autumn night. It was the group that this year felt perfectly at home on returning to Bluffton, that swatted the unfortunate Frosh most mercilessly in their initiation performance, and the team of which struggled with might and main to pull the yearlings' tug-of-war team through the slimy waters of the Riley.

The joys of the Sophomore are manifold; for instance, he or she may, and does, have dates from the beginning of school, while the less fortunate Freshman must wait several weeks; again, any member of the first year class is under obligation to go on errands for anyone above him, so that the Soph feels the pleasure of being boss instead of being bossed. But there is probably also some feeling of satisfaction in doing more advanced curricular work rather than merely the required work of the first year. Also, an examination of the roll of the class shows a big interest in outside activities. The following list shows the number of Sophomores belonging to the various organizations as well as dependable men in athletics; Girl's Glee Club, 6; Men's Glee Club, 9; debating, 4; Press Club, 9; football, 5; basktball, 3; baseball, 5; track, 4; tennis, 2.

The class party took the form of a theatre party at the Faurot opera house in Lima, the play there being "The French Doll". This was followed by a midnight visit to the Iron Lantern. This year's tug-of-war, as stated before, came out with the Sophs on the long end, literally speaking. The husky bucks who did the pulling were determined not to walk the bed of the Riley, as last years crew did, and as a consequence the Frosh team was showly but surely pulled to its doom. Unfortunately, the water was only knee-deep. The Frosh, however were given the opportunity to redeem themselves in the inter-class basketball game and did so, beating out the Sophs in the exciting final game.

CLASS OF '31

Christopher Collegiate, after much coaxing and displaying of merits, induced Mother Isabella to see Father Ferdinand about finding a shorter more successful route to Good Fortune by way of more education. Father Ferdinand financed the expedition under the conditions that he, Christopher Collegiate, be faithful and make them proud by proving to the world that perseverance wins. In return, Christopher will receive "ten dollars for every day" of his journey and the title A. B. attached to his name.

There were many who made fun of Christopher and called him names such as "Greeny," "Upstart," "Know-nothing" and "Fresh-one." Some told him he was too dumb to make or even start the trip. Others tried to frighten him with tales about great Faculty Monsters who ruled the seas and made it hard for many to "pass."

However, on September 10, 1927 Christopher Collegiate set sail from Port Home amid tears and parting words of advice for that far distant and unknown land of educational resources.

After some days of sailing Christopher cited a number of "red objects" which he later learned were buildings of Bluffton College. Into one of these he unloaded his cargo and prepared himself to winter over the following months.

Christopher was discouraged oftimes for he thought of the lovely meals which Mother Isabella was preparing at home and how kind Father Ferdinand acted in contrast with the elders of this new place. These inhabitants especially the tribe called Sophomores inflicted such punishment upon Christopher that he doubted whether he had made a safe move. Perhaps he should have taken warning from those people before he sailed.

Really, they tortured him in many ways—carrying weights, robbing his sleep, cutting the beard from his face and branding with green. Although Chris. bravely bore these unjust punishments, one day in November he died.

It seems that the hearts of his tormentors softened somewhat for they fashioned a crude casket and held a burial ceremony for him. A few were even seen to shed tears. The body bourne by fellow-sympathizers of Christopher was at length lowered by ropes into a deeply dug grave. Only a mound, under the wide-spreading trees of College Campus, tells the evidence of Christopher's mistreatment.

Perhaps you feel that my tale is ended? No, Christopher had two lives. His second lives on in the Class of '31. All of his termentors feel sorry for the way they treated him and it is best they do, for he has learned the ways of the New World and althouthe tuition was high, experience was a good teacher.

In December, Christopher Collegiate sailed back and related to Mother Isabella all his experiences and explained to Father Ferdinand the distribution of his money. Judging that the first voyage was profitable, Mother and Father determined to finance expeditions until Christopher gained a strong footing in the New Colony.

PI-DELTA SOCIETY

It was during the year 1921-22 that the faculty, following a suggestion by Dean Byers, recommended that there be an organization of Honor Students effected. The students then in college who were previously listed on the Roll of Blufton Scholars, with S. F. Pannabecker from the faculty, were taken as the basis of the organization. Temporary officers were elected, a constitution was drawn up, adopted, and passed by the faculty. It was on the basis of this constitution that the twenty-eight charter members were elected.

The object of the Pi Delta Society is to recognize and promote good scholarship. Membership is open to students of Blufton College who show exceptionally good scholarship. The members are elected by vote of the faculty at the close of the Junior year or later. Three semesters of their work must be completed in Bluffton College and a minimum of fifteen hours of work giving collegiate credit must be carried. Only fifteen per cent. of their grades may be C, while none may be below that mark, and for at least one year there must have been no grades below B. Any student taking Departmental Honors is also elegible for membership. With this as a standard fifty members have been added to the original group.

Ever since the society has been organized there has been the desire expressed by members that the requirements for the admittance be raised. Accordingly, last fall the faculty voted to require a minimum of twenty-five per cent. A's. Candidates for Departmental Honors will be included only if they meet the requirements for membership, being exempt only from the twenty-five per cent. A's.

It is hoped that when the revision goes into effect next fall that the object of the society will be still further fulfilled.

STUDENT SENATE

President - - - - - - Glenn Hilty
Secretary and Treasurer - - - - - Zoa Manges
Roy Cramer - Martha Gerber - Ralph Naffziger

We are now living in an age when trained leaders are in demand. To choose these leaders is a problem, but their training is as important. Practice makes perfect. Student government is an excellent institution in which a young person may obtain this practical training. It not only trains the mind of the youth to see and attempt to solve the student problems, but also gives a training which is valuable in later life.

Interested, but not concerned so much with the solution of these problems, the Senate has for its purpose rather the aim to act as a legislative and executive body and in so doing to enact such flexible laws, regulations, and to entertain such a universally applicable constitution, that problems of student relations, conduct, etc., will be minimized in number. By so acting the trouble of solving the problems of college life will be averted to a certain extent.

The Senate is composed of representatives of the three upper classes. Each class has one or more representatives who are chosen according to their ability to understand the needs of the school, and still have the interest of their representative group at heart. By thus uniting the faculty and student body through a legislative student group, more responsibility will be felt, and a tendency toward a higher goal in quality of work done is inevitable.

STUDENT TRIBUNAL

Russell President Close Lavahn Potee Secretary-treasurer

Mervin Springer, Margaret Kimmel, Forrest Musser, Walter Krehbiel, Mabel Geiger, Leslie Geiger, Mabel Studer, Treva Stepleton, Roy Mohr, Martha Moser, Prof. Smith.

The system of Student Government would be incomplete without a Judicial Department to enforce certain regulations set forth by the Student Senate. This organization is called the Student Tribunal. It is in immediate subordination to the Senate and is a recognized authority in our system of student government.

This body has the sole power to enforce and interpret all college rules and regulations and to make such laws which are deemed necessary and which do not transgress on the powers of the Student Senate.

It is not the aim of this organization to be one of repression or coercion but of helpfulness for the students. It carries out its policies for the good of the entire student body according to the demands of justice. It proceeds as a court to investigate misdemeanor, passes a verdict of innocence or guilt upon the offender and determines the nature of the punishment.

The Tribunal is a cooperative body between the faculty and the students. Its success lies not in the number of decisions and punishments rendered but in the cooperation with the student body.

Its aim is to maintain high standards of conduct and to foster those traditions and ideals which our Alma Mater sanctions.

SCIENCE CLUB

Several years ago a science club was organized on our campus. Due to an overorganization of various other activities this organization ceased to function or exist. During the past school year an effort was made to renew interest in such an organization.

A meeting was called by the heads of the science departments at which the club was organized and plans made for holding meetings once a month. Very little has been accomplished in this respect as yet but a constitution has been drawn up and plans are being made to continue the monthly meetings next year.

The purpose of the organization is to increase scientific knowledge and promote research along scientific lines. Four sciences are represented at present in this organization namely, Biological sciences, Chemistry, Physics and Home Economics.

Special outside speakers on some particular scientific subjects along with discussions by the students on current science problems will constitute the programs of the year. By holding the meetings only once per month there will be less danger of conflicting meetings of other organizations while at the same time sufficient interest can be maintained.

The membership consists of students and faculty members of the college who are particularly interested in science. Every science major and minor should make a special effort to boost this club.

HIGH OF RESIDUAL DUBBLISH BY

THE Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. has a three-fold purpose, namely to develop young men spiritually, intellectually and physically. This organization is world wide in scope. The college is only one of its many fields of endeasor. The spiritual welfare is the primary concern of the college "Y" since the intellectual is provided for in the curriculum and the physical is taken eare of in our intramural and inter-collegiate athletic competition.

The work of the "Y" is necessarily dominated by a spirit of service. This spirit is manifested by the work of the "Y" on our campus in carrying out the "Y" program. During the summer two very definite things are accomplished. First, a handbook, containing valuable information for all new students, is printed and sent to all new students before the opening of school in the fall, and second a group of fellows attend the Lake Geneva Conference which does more to develop the spiritual life of an individual than any other single conference now known and accessible to us.

When new students come to Blufton for the first time, the "Y" aims to meet them at the station either at Blufton or Lima. The fall activities are largely social. The annual Student and Faculty reception in the gymnasium is a real get-to-gether and social mixer. Then to get the fellows acquainted, just a little better, the famous "Y" Stag is held during the year along with other social events such as the May Day Luncheon when the Y. M. cooperates with the Y. W.

The "Y" is a very material help to the fellows and the community in their social service work, which consists in securing work for the fellows to earn part of their expenses.

The religious development is taken care of in the weekly "Y" meetings where vital topics are discussed, either by students, or outside speakers. In addition to the weekly meetings the "Y" encourages discussion groups, where such problems as amusements, social relations between men and wemen, and other campus problems are discussed. A world outlook is maintained partly through the work of the World Fellowship Committee. Ample opportunity is given for expression of the many valuable impressions received at the various meetings and associations with one another in the Deputation work carried en. For special meetings, such as Armistice Day and Thanksgiving the Y. M. and Y. W. cooperate.

The most valuable results of the work of the Y are intangible. Nothing is more more encouraging to one interested in the spiritual welfare of our youth than to see a group of young men mutually solving their problems and actually having fellowship one with another. The spirit of unselfish service was given impetus on our Campus when Dr. Bruce Curry of Union Theological Seminary taught the student body some of the teachings of Jesus. His influence created a spiritual awakening in some of the students. It is the sincere desire of the Y that the best that is within our youth should blossom forth and have a challenging and noble influence.

Y. M. C. A. CABINET

Y. W. C. A.

Generalizing a bit, how may we summarize the program of the Y. W. C. A. for the year? What has it meant to the new student, to the person who is already adapted to college life as an upper classman? Will a connection with the Y. W. mean anything to the graduate in years to come?

Let it be understood that the association does not function spontaneously without preparation for its program of service. The routine it follows is planned methodically. Last summer Bluffton was represented at the Geneva Conferece, and the delegates, enthusiastic in the application of suggestions offered there, were the investigators of numerous plans that finally materialized this winter.

The arrangement of the Bruce Curry Conference can be attributed largely to the efforts of various cabinet representatives who had previously appreciated discussions led by this man, whose aim it is to help college students rediscover the Jesus way of life. As a result of this week-end study, active discussion groups on toleration, peace, amusements, honor system and the relationship between men and women were organized.

Moreover, interest for the extension of a course in hygenic principles was fostered through the Y. W. If the second semester's classes prove worth-while, attempt to make it a listed course for required work shall be undertaken.

Such projects as these could be accomplished only through some sense of understanding and cooperation among the pledged members. Cannot due credit be granted to the sister movement among girl students for this helpful spirit? The custom of having each girl pay special attention to one assigned newcomer makes for surprising friendships and mutuality of interests.

How is our work wholly self-centered. Our work permeates through the campus to the local high school; one of the cabinet members denotes her time to the Girl Reserves, an auxiliary of the Y. W. proper.

Deputation teams, jointly representing the Y. M. and Y. W., visit neighboring churches and take charge of an evening session on different occasions.

Extending farther yet, for one week the association took part in a program for prayer; as did all the representative student world.

And with the same universay brotherhood in mind, at Christmas time, a fund through the sale of the traditional candle, was raised for the Student Friendship Endowment.

We may conclude that these demonstrations in the past can demonstrate what can be done in the future. Factories, offices, nublic schools, colleges, all depend a great deal on the educated young women of America. The Y. W. has come, in the emergency, as the emhodied wisdom and sympathy of thousands of women to advise wisely, to strengthen physically, to protect morally, to encourage spiritually those about them. To maintain and extend activities of this institution is the highest kind of patriotism and the noblest type of philanthropy.

ALMA MATER

Hail to thee, dear Bluffton College Temple made by God's own hand, Pillars tall of Nature's forest Guardian to thy beauty stand.

Chorus:

Bluffton College, how we love thee, Ever true to thee we'll be; Loyalty and deep devotion Joyously we offer thee.

Flow'rs of rarest hue adorn thee, Wildwood birds thy praises sing, While with theirs our voices blending Make the Heav'ns with music ring.

Noble that's and high ideals, Friendships dear we owe to thee, Clearer visions thou dest give us, And thy truth shall make us free.

Like a beacon on the hill top, Clearer still thy light shall shine; God's protecting care be o'er the, Thousands worship at thy shrine.

MUSIC

THE CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

In addition to the regular Liberal Arts department, Bluffton has a very strong music Conservatory which is gaining an enviable reputation among other music schools of Ohio. However, that is not the only place where it has made itself known. In later years they have ranked among the best of the State. It will be interesting to note that this department has grown, and hecause of that fact could no longer take care of its demands in the residence which it once occupied on South Main street. The new studios which now occupy Lincoln and Science Halls have been outgrown and now present conditions demand a new Music Hall which has been planned.

One does not have to enroll in the Conservatory to receive all the advantages that it has to offer. There are several campus organizations conducted under the auspices of the Music School that afford valuable musical training to students not planning to Major in Music; these are the Two Glee Clubs, the Orchestra, the Choral Society and the Vesper Choir. Many of the students who enroll in the College of Liberal Arts take advantage of the privileges offered.

The aim of the Conservatory is two-fold. The first, to create and maintain in this community an appreciation for good music through the direct contact with its peoples. The second, to send out into other communities men and women who appreciate good musical talent and who will be instrumental in developing that quality to such an extent that it will be an impelling force in that community. All of the organizations which have been mentioned above have had their share of influence in the community about us and in the communities which they have visited. Music graduates have very successfully carried out the second aim of their school. This is evidenced by the good reports received from them and by the growth of the Music Conservatory itself. able overseer of all musical activities. Much of the spirit which has been responsible for the success of this department is due to his untiring efforts, and to his tactful means of procedure.

THE COLLEGE CHORAL SOCIETY

As one of the musical organizations of the College, the Choral Society plays one of the leading roles. There is probably no other organization which deserves as much credit for the work it has done in bringing good, classical music to the college and the entire community of Bluffton. This is the twenty-eighth year of its existence.

The high standard of music which is held in this community is largely due to this society. Each year it finances the College Music and High School Lecture Course. This has been a source of pleasure to many. This year it provided some especially fine numbers for this course.

On Sunday, December the eighteenth, the chorus of one hundred and fifty voices rendered the Messiah to two large and appreciative audiences in the College Gymnasium. This was the eighteenth annual presentation of the Messiah; each year it is received with great enthusiasm by the college and the surrounding community.

The chorus was under the able direction of Professor Otto Holtkamp; he presented a very well trained and well balanced chorus.

The soprano solo parts were sung by Miss Nanna Johnson, a member of the Dayton Westminster Choir. The contralto parts were taken by Miss Stella Schumacher, of Bluffton. Russel A. Lantz, voice instructor, appeared as tenor soloist. John Lynch of Lima appeared as baritone soloist.

Mrs. H. P Mann at the Piano, and the Bluffton College Orchestra under the direction of Professor Sidney Hauenstein accompanied the soloists and chorus.

On Sunday, April the first, the Choral Society gave a very pleasing rendition of Rosinni's Stabat Mater. This was presented both afternoon and evening in the large auditorium of the First Mennonite Church. Both times the church was filled to its capacity, and in the evening large numbers were turned away. This shows to us how much good classical music is appreciated when people are given an opportunity to hear it.

The Choral Society was very fortunate in being able to secure a quartet of soloists from the Dayton Westminster Choir to sing the solo parts in the Stabat Mater. The bass solo parts were sung by Professor G. A. Lehman, former director of the Choral society. The soprano parts were taken by Lorean Hodapp; the contralto parts by Ora Gabbard and the tenor parts by Fred Welty, a former student of Bluffton College.

The soloists and chorus were accompanied by Mrs. H. P. Mann, at the piano; Miss Wilhelmina Bixel at the organ; and the Bluffton College Orchestra under the direction of Professor Sidney Hauenstein. The entire presentation was under the direction of Professor Otto Holtkamp.

THE VESPER CHOIR

Perhaps no musical organization on the Bluffton Campus has fulfilled its purpose quite a well as has the Vesper Choir. In the words of Mr. Williamson, director of the famous Westminster Choir, the chief aims of any choir is to create an atmosphere of worship. Vesper audiences can testify that at least one choir has reached that lofty aspiration. Hence it may be said that without the Choir few Vesper services would have been a success.

The Choir in itself was an attraction for a music loving audience. From the time of its entrance up until its departure, a spirit of worship pervaded the entire chapel. Stately, black-robed figures who sang as they marched to their choir loft reminded one of choirs in old Cathedrals. The chanting of Latin hymns would add to this impression. And at the close there came the hushed beauty of voices slowly dying in the distance. It left a message in the hearts of listeners, more eloquent than spoken words.

Rev. S. M. Davidian, pastor of the Central Church of Christ in Lima, Ohio, and one of the vesper speakers here, expressed his appreciation of the work of the Choir by inviting it to give a program in his church. On February, twelfth, the program was presented to a home audience and on the nineteenth it was given at the Lima church. It consisted of Latin and English hymns with solo numbers by the accompanist, Professor Holtcamp. The finesse in the presentation was unusual for an amateur performance, and he Choir should be congratulated upon it.

Three factors contributed to the success of this organization. It was composed of the cream of Bluffton College singers, it has as its accompanist the dean of the School of Music, and it found in Miss Krehbiel an able directress. Untiring work and energy were necessary to produce good music. Much time and effort were spent in preparation for each Vesper service. Much of the credit goes to the active interest and musical ability of Miss Krehbiel, who has had the Choir under her direction for the past three years. With a record like that of the past year, Bluffton College may well be proud of its Vesper Choir.

MENS GLEE CLUB 1927-28

Under the capable direction of Russel A. Lantz the Mens Glee Club completed a most successful year. The men have shown a fine spirit throughout and a willingness for hard work. The untiring efforts of the director together with the cooperation of the club members has produced for this club a record that deserves commendation.

Twenty-five men were chosen last fall from thirty-five applicants. Myron Gerber, who piloted the club through the 1926 season was again elected president. Much enthusiasm was shown and the men gave their hearty support to Prof. Lantz as he launched into the season's work. Quite a number of men studied voice which added much to the efficiency of the club. The program contained gems of glee club music, which took many hours of hard work to master.

The big event of the year was the three weeks eastern tour, through Ohio, Pennsylvania, Northern Maryland and West Virginia. The club chartered a large motor bus for the trip, leaving Bluffton on December 20th, and returning January 10th, covering a distance of two thousands miles and giving thirty concerts.

The club was very much appreciated in the communities which they appeared and the audiences were generous in their praise and financial support.

The experiences on this trip were rich and varied. The club visited Atlantic City and its board walk, spent two days in Philadelphia, viewed the battle grounds of Valley Forge and Gettysburg, broadcasted from Akron and Philadelphia, and saw many interesting and beautiful scenes along the Juanita river and Cumberland trail.

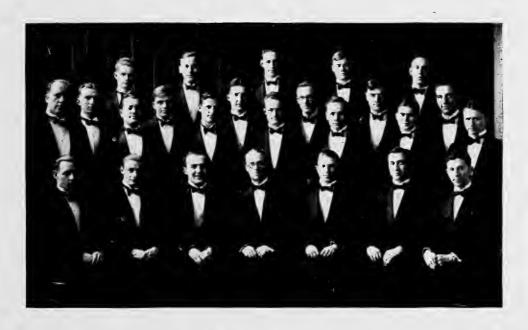

Upon their return the club was enthusiastically received by a large audience at their home concert.

On February 24th the club participated in the zone contest, a part of the Ohio State Glee Club Association elimination contest, and placed second.

During the year the club gave concerts at Pandora, Jenera, Topeka, Silverstreet and Goshen.

The club has been ranked by competent critics with the best clubs Bluffton College has ever produced. Press reports and individual opinions of those who sponsored the concerts during the year were enthusiastic and glowing. Due to consistent fundamental voice work during rehearsals and on the tour, the intonation, diction shading, attacks, releases and tone quality of the club were excellent.

The season of 1927-1928 is past but the club can always look back on such a year with nothing but intense satisfaction.

GIRLS GLEE CLUB

Our Glee Club practices are nearing an end as the school year hurries to its close, and as we look back over it, what has been the history of our club in 1927-28; not the steriotyped history, but the real story of our club since September 7.

Six Freshmen were welcomed to our midst; four new upper classmen and twelve eld members completed the chorus. Wilhelmina Bixel again became our accompanist. Martha Gerber was chosen for our president and Eunice Conrad for our "financier."

Our year began by preparations for an operetta, a drama purposing to take those of its audience, who were not still there, back again to the realm of childhood and fanciful romance. The Pied Piper! Who has not at some time fallen in love with that enigmatic hero? Our Pied Piper had a gay, pied suit, a long green cape, a cocky hat with a drooping feather and a queer long pipe. Didn't he fill the expectations?

Until December the fourth we worked on our drama, hunting up discarded patterns for small sized knickers and searching for grandfathers' slippers, old shawls, toys for the toy vender, flowers for our pretty little flower girl and a crutch for our poor little lame boy.

Forest Musser painted an interesting background (was that scenery, really only a painted paper wall?) which gave an atmosphere of Hamlin Town. The curtain rolled up. We danced, we sang, we spoke fervent speeches, we went for our lost Hansels and Gretels, and for our lonely little cripple. The curtain rolled down over Hamlin Town. Some came back the second night and we were very glad.

Christmas was a few weeks off. "What a Christmas without a party and carols, a tree with candles and heaps of good cheer?" we said.

The boys kindly lent us Lincoln Hall lobby. With a cheerful fire, a winking Christmas tree and a popcorn popper, we passed the evening.

Our preparations for a spring trip and participation in none other than the Ohio Girls' Glee Club contest were renewed after the holidays. After several months of effort, we decked ourselves out in shining rainment, chartered a bus, and after giving a home concert, started out on our Spring trip.

Oxford was our goal for Friday, the sixteenth of March, was the contest night for the Ohio Girls' Glee Club, and this was Friday. Barring the fact that all the altos but the Conrad sisters took sick before the ride was over, we arrived in Oxford much as we left Bluffton, gay and determined.

"Where is this place called Bluffton," we were asked, and cordially welcomed. We ignored our pie, good lemon pie, at the church supper, put on our shining rainment, figuratively set our teeth grimly behind our smiling faces and at eight-thirty walked on the stage. We sang our best. Our directress, who doesn't pervaricate in such matters, told us so. What if we didn't get first? Cincinnati Univerity, who won first, couldn't have done more than that.

We gave a radio program at Circinnati the next day that came all the way to Bluffton and then we traveled to Kenton where we were royally received by friends of Bluffton College.

At this section of our travels we met the climax of out trip, Westminster School at Dayton invited us to visit them and asked us to sing.

Our itinery ended with the New Knoxville program. That night we traveled home singing all the way.

For our last Spring concert we are planning a sacred group, including several selections from the old Latin school of sacred music. We are preparing to give this concert in Lima and Pandora, as well as at home.

The Girls' Glee Club considers their year a musical success somewhat above the ordinary. Due to the fine artistic ability and the unspared efforts of our directress, Miss Krehbiel, who carefully trained and inspired the club, we have had a chorus which was able to hold its own with some of the leading universities of the State.

THE COLLEGE BAND

The college has been working hard to organize a band that will work throughout the year in connection with the athletic association in creating a greater spirit at the gams. This year such an organization was started by a few enthusiastic students who were instrumental in securing enough members to make Home Coming Day a success.

We sincerely wish that this organization will grow and become much stronger than it has been in the past. The future promises to this organization the privilege of leading Bluffton to victory in the various forms of rivalry with other colleges.

The college is greatly indebted to the music department for the spirit they have shown this year and for this organization which will mean so much to a greater Bluffton. Three Cheers for the Band.

THE COLLEGE ORCHESTRA

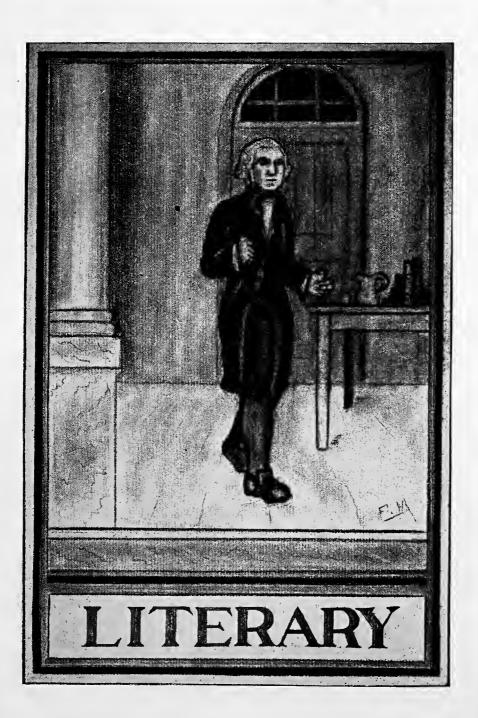

With a splendid nucleus of musicians from last year together with new members of this year the college orchestra has lived up to all expectations and has proved to the College and the community the value of organization.

The orchestra most ably assisted in the presentation of the "Messiah" and the "Stabat Mater". Only those who have in some measure been connected with the organization know of the untiring efforts, patience and the time required for the building up of a finished orchestra.

The college and community can feel proud of Professor Hauenstein who has labored unceasingly in its behalf. The fine training which is given in the grades and high schools makes this organization one which is of great influence in the community.

LITERARIES To mold in vibrant beauty each outspoken word; To make the bashfulness of would-be speakers seem absurd; In stricken orators the silver tongues to loose And let forgetting their orations not excuse The failure to complete a job they ought to tackle; To cause the wit of every humorist to crackle In all the essays that he undertakes; To make good story writers out of fakes; To teach the mysteries of good debating; (To hand two blows, while only one you're taking;) To show that singing any recreation Is harmful to a forceful declamation; To check impromptu speakers in their blowing As well as keep their ignorance from showing; In other words, to waft the wands of fairies Is just the work of College Literaries!

ORATORICAL ASSOCIATION

The Oratorical Association is an organization which stimulates all Literary activity on the campus. It has grown from a small body of about six members to one of about two dozen. An increasing interest has been shown in the last few years in this line of work. This is evidenced by the fact that so many came out for the Inter-collegiate oratory contest this year. Other noticeable evidences are the strong debating teams which Coach Howe has been able to turn out in the last few years, and the increased interest in Literary work in general.

This organizations growth brings with it a larger enrollment in the Oratory department. Students have realized that the need to be able to express ones self effectively is becoming greater. Therefore, the classes in public speaking, oratory, debating and other forms of speech training have become larger.

A few years ago most any-one who went out for the Inter-collegiate Oration found an opportunity at some time in his college career to represent the college in oration. Today, it is not so because others have taken advantage of this priviledge and real competition is the result. The same thing is true of the debating teams. Men must come out early in the first semester and work on through the year with earnest zeal to compete in the later part of the second semester for a position on the debate team.

The Association has sent out two successful debate teams this year. Some new material was found to be very helpful in building up the strength of teams. Although the roll was not increased as much as last year, the group has done well to get these men into their organization. Another definite work which the association does every year is through the delegates which they send out to the inter-collegiate contest. Three orators, two men and one girl, have shown themselves very capable in the contests in which they have had a part.

Both Professors Howe and Smucker have worked hard to bring this organization to its present standing, and much of the credit for the merits of this society should go to them. With the material which these coaches have for the next year, even greater things are expected of the teams that will be sent out.

ORATORY GRADUATES

JACOB WARKENTIN Mt. Lake, Minn.

Jacob Warkentin has completed a two year course in the school of Oratory. For some time he has taken private lessons from Prof. Smucker in voice training and in oration. Jacob has been on the debate teams for four years, and has been very valuable to his team. This year he has served as captain of his team and has handled this position very capably. In addition to this Jacob has taken a great interest in oratory work. For two years he has taken part in the local Intercollegiate contests and this year won the inter-society contest. He has been taking practice teaching at the High School in this kind of work and seems to enjoy it very much. We are sorry to loose such a valuable man as "Jake" because the debate team always depended on him to pick out the "inconsistencies" in the opposing arguments.

MRS, SARA SINK Columbus Grove, Ohio

Mrs. Mary Sink has finished her work under the direction of Prof. Smucker and is giving a recital for her graduation on the fourth of June. Mrs. Sink comes from Columbus Grove and we do not hear of her very much because she has other duties of which we have had no experience. However, she knows what school life is, since she has not only gone thru the experience herself but she has had the priviledge of directing many others through this same experience. One who is willing to spend part of her time each week, amid all the other duties that she has, surely deserves the credit that shall be given her as a graduate of the oratory department.

LOCAL CONTEST WINNERS

In the local Peace Oratorical contest, first place was awarded to the oration, "Sacrifice, Pagan and Christian", delivered by Carl Landes. Second honors went to Paul Stauffer with his oration, "Peace Through Education". George Thielman with his oration, "Russia, and World Peace", won third place.

In the Constitution contest held at the same time, first place was given to Forrest Musser who was also winner of last years contest. His oration was, "The Constitution". John Keller, a freshman, took second place, with the oration, "The Constitution". Third place was won by Milton Badertscher.

The awards given for first place were fifteen dollars in gold, and for second place ten dollars in gold. These were gifts of Mr. Franklin R. Mason of last years graduating class.

The Inter-collegiate contest for this section of the state was held at Ohio Northern University. Six colleges took part in this contest. Due to sickness Mr. Landes could not participate so Mr. Stauffer took his place and placed fifth. We feel quite confident that if it had not been for this mishap that our ranking would have been higher. Nevertheless we have two experienced men for next year's contest

The sectional contest held at Otterbein for the Constitution orations was very closely contested. Mr. Musser did very well to place among the best orators from Case and Reserve and other schools of this calibre.

Girls oratory is something new on our campus. Last year one oration was given by Orpha Troyer. Dorothy Quiring represents the school in girls oratory this year. The title of her oration is, "The American Negro Comes of Age."

AFFIRMATIVE TEAM

if one wants to know the strength of the Bluffton debating teams for 1927-2s, the unswer can be found in a recent statement made by Coach Hove. He frankly remarked that in the past term he had the strongest squad the college has ever produced. Our affirmative team ably defended the convention system of nomination in the

Our affirmative team ably defended the convention system of nomination in the debate on the question: "Resolved that the convention system of nomination should be substituted for the direct primary system, constitutionality conceded." Only two debates were held in the Onio Conference during the past term.

On Marin Str. Ohio Northern sent its negative team to meet our affirmative on the home floor. Though our men clearly showed a more thorough knowledge of the question, the judge, Roy Swink from Wapakoneta gave the decision to the Northern speakers because of their superior skill in oratory.

Not daunted by defeat, the Blufton team journeyed to Otterbein on the following Saturday night. March 10th. Here they showed remarkable proficiency in handling the question, but again lost according to the decision of the adjudicator, West of Dennison who gave the negative slightly more credit for their argument.

The members of the team debating in these two contests were Jacob Warkentin, Merl Gerber, and Forrest Musser. The reserve squad consisted of John Ramseyer, Clayton Smucker and Paul Badertscher.

Mr. Warkertin, a senior, completed his four years of collegiate debating in a splendid manner. His graduation will leave a vacancy which cannot easily be filled. The arguments presented and the tactful rebuttals won favor from everyone.

Meri Gerber, a junior, came to Blufften from Wooster College last fall. It is difficult to find a man as calm but yet as forceful in debating as is Mr. Gerber. His clear thinking and business-like presentation of facts gained the approval of the adjudicator and the audience.

Forrest Musser, a junior experienced his second year of intercollegiate debating for Bluffton. Mr. Musser had been proclaimed one of the best debaters in the conterence and did not fail in holding his own in the past years debates.

With Gerber and Musser back next year and Ramseyer and Sn.ucker with experience on the 1926-27 team, together with Badertscher, a promising Sophomore, Bluffton will be prepared to meet the heavy schedule outlined for the coming year.

NEGATIVE DEBATING TEAM

The result of intensive concentration of thought, extensive reading careful organization of conclusive evidence and facts, preliminary debates and rapid fire forensic skill was exhibited by our negative team composed of Milton Badertscher, Elmer Hostettler and Leroy Walke. The question this year was, Resolved: That the Convention system of nomination be substituted for the Direct Primary constitutionality conceded. A victory over the Mt. Union affirmative on the local floor and a close decision against them at the hands of the strong Heidelberg affirmative team at Tiffin, Ohio was the record for the season.

Milton Badertscher, the first speaker, a senior of two years experience in intrecollegiate debating again equalled the task. He with the rest of the team members exhibited the power of extemporaneous debating as a result of inclusive knowledge of the question at hand. He will be remembered as upholding the Primary system as an improvement over the old Convention system which he condemned on the basis of the inherent corruption.

Elmer Hostettler as second speaker easily overcame all possible handicaps of lack of previous experience in forensic contests when he in a very clear cut manner proved himself a master of the situation with an abundance of clashing evidence at hand. His power of refutation was always accredited him by the judges as well as the audiences. His emphatic argument that the Direct Primary system has not lowerd party responsibility and is no more expensive, were exceedingly effective wih his pleasing delivery.

Leroy Walke, another senior who has exhibited his forensic abilities for Bluffton in former years, was always effective with his extemporaneous rebuttals. His keen reasoning power and analytical mind were assets which he has always possessed.

The alternate team composed of Paul Stauffer, Lowell Risser, and Carl Landis proved an ability for forensic talent in the preliminary debates. Being unable to schedule any debates the team was not given the opportunity of officially representing the College in intercollegiate debating. We have a great deal of confidence in this team for the future.

INTER-SOCIETY COUNCIL

The four literary societies of the school necessarily need a body of students to regulate problems which concern all of them. This duty is entrusted to the Intersociety Council, which consists of the president and one other member from each society, together with the faculty advisors. This group is privileged and is duty bound to discuss the problems that arise until satisfactory decisions are reached.

The first problem which confronted the Council at the outset of the year was the the method by which the societies should induce new students to join. It was decided that each new student was given the privilege of attending both societies and all types of meetings before the challenge was presented to him. After this the students were given the privilege of joining any society voluntarily. This they were to do within a days time. From that time on those who had not already joined were solicited for membership. This gave each new student the privilege of making an unbiased decision and hindered the grand rush which usually exists.

A great part of the literary enthusiasm is created by contests. These must be carefully planned by the Council. Problems arise, such as, time of contest, selection of the judge, the presiding officer, the numbers to be presented, the qualifications of the participants plus numerous others of the same nature.

The first contest held in January, consisted of the following numbers: Extemporaneous Speech, Critical Essay and the Oration. It was decided that one judge from out of town be secured. Professor Carmicheal from Bowling Green was chosen and he acted as judge throughout the series of contests. The second contest held in March consisted of a Short Story, Informal Essay Interpretation of a Poem, and an Orignal Dialogue. The third and last contest was held the second week in May and consisted of a Debate and a Serious Reading.

Participants in these contests have to conform to certain rules which are formulated by the Council. Only those who have attended two-thirds of the regular meetings and have paid their dues can participate.

Formerly each member was given a certain number of points, such as five, ten and twenty points in order of importance. This year the council decided that each number should count ten points except for the debate which shall count twenty points. The brother and sister society having the highest number of points at the close of the three contests shall receive a silver cup as a prize. Each winning participant shall receive a suitable medal.

This organization has been the means of securing the best possible co-operation between the different societies and have helped greatly in placing—literary—activities upon their rightful plane.

At seven-fifteen each Wednesday evening on the fourth floor in the Science Hall a group of Aletheans assemble for an hour to listen to a novel program which has been planned by the program committee. The first object is to make an impression on the new students and also to represent the subsequent value of this Literary Society.

The real membership drive was delayed for some time because of some technical difficulties. Meetings were held in the meantime to which the new students were cordially invited. A number of new members were added to the roll and their special abilities were demonstrated in the initiation. Each number on that program demanded originality and novel ideas on the part of the victim and all responded very creditably. The programs throughout the year were strictly literary with the subjects taken from different fields. When possible such programs were rendered as would lend to the appropriatness of the season. At other meetings the numbers were those of contestants in try-outs, the winner appearing in the inter-society contest. We were not able to ascertain the athletic ability of our society this year for intramural games were between the classes instead of literary societies. An occasional social meeting, either of our own society or jointly with our brother society, relieved the intellectual strain. Among these was the Christmas Party with the Athenians which was held in Lincoln Hall Lobby.

We can indeed say that we had a successful year. Our officers were well chosen and the program committee was efficient. It has been our aim to do work of merit and it is satisfying to feel that we have accomplished our purpose.

ATHENIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

The Athenian Literary Society has finished another year with its primary purpose well carried out—that of developing within its members an interest for things literary. The programs were varied as much as possible, the members of the society being assigned topics that fitted their individualities as nearly as possible. Humor in some form was generally introduced into the program. The extemporaneous speech was probably resorted to most frequently for this purpose; in such a case the victim was not informed that he was on the program until the program began. Essays, dialogues, and prepared speeches on worth while subjects all found their way into the weekly meetings. Some of the programs were on special topics, such as "Drama", "Parliamentary Procedure," and "The Missing Link". The last named program proved to be one devoted to the discovery of vocational abilities rather than the subject that the name would imply. The program committee during the first semester sensed a valuable source of material in the glee club trip in the East, and returning members "did their stuff".

Seven new members were netted in the annual membership drive. They showed promise in their initiation stunt, which was more difficult than in former years, as their speeches were absolutely spontaneous. Candidates for representation in the inter-society contest were tried out at the regular meetings, and the winners were usually fairly evenly matched with those of the rival society. Several joint meetings with the Alethian society were held during the year, and these, as the "open lit." meetings, were usually well attended. One of the student chapels of the second semester was conducted by officers of the club. The athletic provess of the society could not be determined, as intra-mural games this year were played by opposing classes rather than literary societies. The first social of the club was held jointly with the Alethians in the form of a Christmas party. Even here literary work was not neglected, as the question, "Resolve That There is a Santa Claus," was debated by opposing sides.

Much credit should be given to the presidents of the club for their efforts to make the society's work successful. Forrest Musser and Jacob Warkentin both showed dependability in their offices.

THE PHILOMATHEAN LITERARY SOCIETY

The Philomatean literary society is composed of a group of women of the college who are interested in the intellectual and moral culture of its members. Because of its high cultural ideals and standards it has been able to maintain and even improve itself through years. Regardless of any rumor to the contrary, it does not "slide through" on its reputation. The keen competition of other "lits" has inspired the Philo executives to make greater efforts for its improvement. As a result this year has been a very successful one for the Philos.

A series of well-planned, educational programs aroused the interest of the new students to such an extent that eighteen new members were added to the roll. This same interest has been kept up during the year. One of the most interesting programs was about the "Short Story". The story was read up to the point where the climax was reached and then three girls were asked to give their original ending for it. As they knew no more about the real ending than did the rest, wierd and surprising things took place. Everybody enjoyed a good laugh when the final part of the story was read.

Every effort was made throughout the year to plan the program in time for early assignments. Of course, even best intentions fell short once in a while, but renewed efforts brought the society nearer to its goal.

There were no interociety athletics this year but the literaary contests were entered with the same enthusiasm. The contestants prepared long ahead for the contests that were to follow. The splendid cooperation given by our brother society the Adelphians, helped us to gain and maintain a lead during the entire series.

The silver cup which is given each year to the winners will be held by the Philo-Adephians again this year. To us it is a great encouragement and a reward for the extra effort put forth. It shall be our duty in the future to so strive that this cup might remain in our societies as a permanent possession. However, we do not believe that this is the only reward that can come from a contest of this sort. Each individual that takes part may through his or her experience contribute to the interest and enthusiasm for greater intellectual achievement.

ADELPHIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

The aim of any literary society should be to cultivate the talents of its members to the highest possible degree. The Adelphian society is composed of a group of versatile young men who have taken this project seriously. Although crippled by a loss of members and branded as a "happy-go-lucky" organization, they have attempted and succeeded in producing literary work of worthy note.

The programs throughout the year have been varied and interesting, such topics as literature, student activities, current events and seasonal activities being discussed. Special emphasis has been placed on giving each member a fair chance to demonstrate and improve his literary ability. Nor has this effort been in vain for the essayists and extemporaneous speakers found among the new members were of no mean ability and contributed much towards the winning of the inter-society challenge cup.

In order to stimulate interest in literary work and to put the calibre of work done on a higher plane, the inter-society contests have been instigated. Both societies cannot win these contests. The victory must go to one side or the other. The only difficulty is that too many literary enthusiasts are prone to possess the perverted idea that the primary purpose of the contest is to score a victory. The real victory—the satisfaction of having achieved something worth while—is scored almost equally by the conquered and vanquished. It has always been the Adelphian ideal to strive for the victory and at the same time to keep the primary purpose of the contest in view. They have always endeavored to assume a sportsmanlike attitude—when conquered, not an alibi; when victorious, not to gloat.

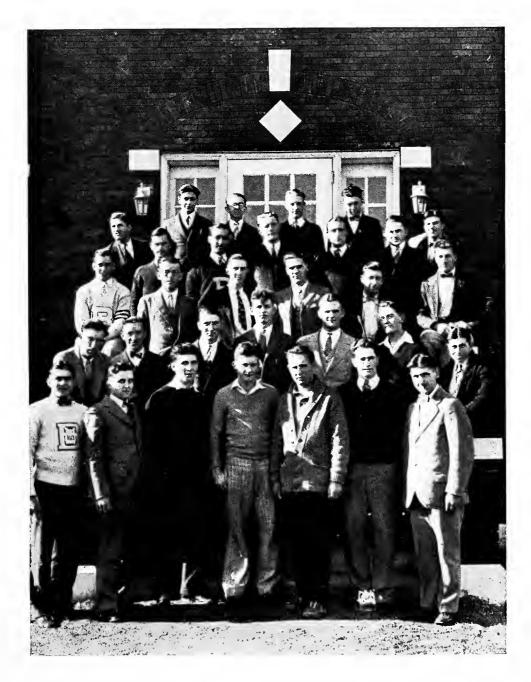

The realm of the Adelphian society as well as any other society, extends beyond the literary field and provides a means of social enjoyment. The various parties and socials in conjunction with their sister society held throughout the year serve as a means of getting better acquainted and have proved well worth while. This type of activity is especially essential for the new students.

The interest taken by the members is shown by the splendid attendance at all the meetings throughout the year. Members of former years who scarcely knew when the meetings were held have become regular attendants and active participants in literary work. Not even the warm spring weather could appreciably decrease the attendance or cause the interest to wane. This fine support has contributed much to the success of the society.

THE PRESS CLUB

The press Club, which represents much of the student literary talent, is one of the foremost organizations on our campus. Membership is determined in tryouts at the beginning of each school year on the basis of journalistic ability. The work of the members, although it is not performed in a conspicuous manner, is none the less a major contribution to the life of the school, and necessitates a wholesome spirit of cooperation on the part of all. The purposes and accomplishments of this organization may best be judged by its widely known product, the Witmarsum.

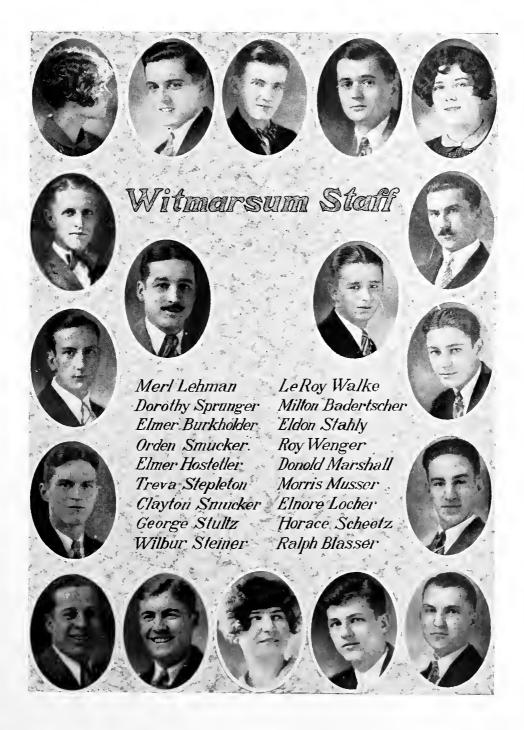

This is a weekly publication which brings to present and former students news of all student activities. It records all athletic events, social functions, musical and literary activities debates and other important and interesting news. Many an amusing episode is revealed through the columns under the head of Ropp Hall Ripples and Lincoln Hall Quacks. Spirited editorials on topics of popular interest are a regular feature.

The eagerness with which it is received each week by the students may be taken as a criterion of its popularity. Its circulation extends not only to many different states, but also to a number of foreign countries where it is gladly received by alumni of the college.

To publish a paper of this kind requires an editorial staff composed of individuals who are mentally alert and observant. They must not only possess literary ability and discrimination but they must be able to compose articles of a style that will interest the reader. Probably no one appreciates the Witmarsum more or derives greater benefit from it than the members of the Press Club who sponsor it. Although they receive no financial reward they obtain intangible and permanent compensation in the form of training in practical journalism, which is furthed enchanced by the consciousness of the fact that they are contributing an important part to our college activities.

However, good literary style and technique, alone, can not insure success for any publication. Executive ability is also a necessary factor in order to take care of the business end, the advertising, and the circulation. Competent men are selected to fill managerial positions, and these are also members of the club.

No small amount of credit must be given to Editor Springer for the success of this year's Witmarsum. With the cooperation of the staff he has edited a paper that is a credit to Bluffton College.

THE ISTA

The Ista is published annually by the Junior class. This photographic history of the school year has grown from a diminutive pack of pages with a paper cover to a volume which rivals all collegiate annuals of its size. During this progress it has witnessed a similar progress in the college life of the campus. Probably no organization appreciates this advancement as does the Ista Staff, because of the privilege which they have of portraying this as no other organization can do.

This publication not only contributes good journalism, and interesting illustrations, but with its expert photography, one of its major gifts to the college has been to bring home to its readers the real beauty and art that surrounds us here on the Campus.

Through in increasing cooperation between the business men of the town the managerial department has been able to increase one of its greatest sources of income by securing a greater number of advertisements. This aids greatly in solving some of the problems which arise from the handicap of a small financial budget

In this year's publication, we have not only followed some of the successful methods used by others, but have tried new ideas, new plans, hoping that we might cause those who come after us to strive to do bigger and better things.

HOMECOMING DAY

Homecoming Day, when we pause to do honor to those who have labored in past years to make Bluffton what she is, when we try to entertain the grads and proudly show them that we have not allowed their alma mater to retrograde from the standards which they set up; and more, that we are moving forward, even as they moved forward, to a mightier Bluffton.

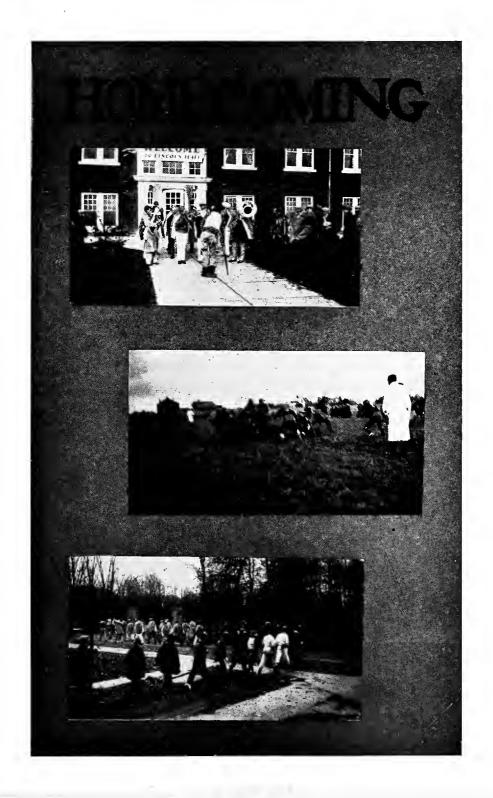

To be sure, no stone was left unturned in the effort to make the day a success and events crowded each other in close succession to make the day replete.

Saturday morning we spent with the alumni in revisiting old scenes and reuniting with old time friends on the campus. Every seat in chapel was filled when "Prexy" gave his official welcome to the returned prodigals.

The feature event of Homecoming of course, was the football game with Findlay. An innovation made in the way of a "hobo parade" by the students clad in patched cloaks and disreputable headgear. Led by the Purple and White band, these "men of the road" paraded the downtown streets and thence to the football field where they formed into a cheering section under the direction of cheermaster Walt Landis. And there was plenty of cheering to do, for Coach Burcky's machine hammered the line and circled the ends for a thrilling 25-0 victory.

At 6 o'clock in the evening, alumni, faculty and students gathered in Ropp Hall for the Homecoming Banquet. Spirit ran high as old grads recalled the Bluffton of former years. There was long and spontaneous applause when the members of the football team presented Coach with a trophy in token of their appreciation and esteem.

At 7:30 all campus paths led to Lincoln Hall to celebrate Open House. Gaily decorated rooms and the jovial banter of friends combined to give us a delightful evening.

THE ENEMY

"The Enemy" given by the Junior Class is a play which emphasizes Peace in all its glory in contrast to the horrors of War. It was written by Channing Pollock. It has had successful runs on the stage in Chicago and many other cities. The plot is very difficult and requires an exceptional cast to present the theme in the most fitting manner. There is a continuous rise in action up to the third act, when the climax is reached in the last scene. This is a very emotional scene and it may be said that much of the success of the play was due to exceptional acting of the players at this point.

The first scene opens with Carl Behrend, a young play writer, talking with the girl he loves, Pauli Arndt. The place is in the Living Room of the Arndt Flat. Carl and Pauli have become so attached to each other that they are married. Within a few days Carl is called to the Army and Pauli is left alone. Hard times come upon the Arndt family as is the case with many of the people of the country. In due time a child is born to the starving Pauli and as she realizes their awful state she calls upon Carl's father for help. He, being a lover of money, has taken advantage of the fall in the value of their currency and has by a sale of bonds increased his own budget at the expense of many of the poorer people. He does not especially love the Arndt family and is very cruel to them.

Finally, after having experienced the horrors of war for a couple of years, rumors were spread over the country of its close end. Pauli is very hopeful when she hears the tramping of the feet of the returning soldiers. However, all her hopes are lost as Jan a former buddy of Carl's returns and tells of his sudden death. As she rushes to the only thing she has left in the world she finds that her baby, too, is dead. Sorrowful and almost panic-stricken Pauli falls upon her knees and thanks God that her baby could not fall by the same cruel hands of which his father died. The last act brings us gradually to a close where it is related that Pauli's only joy is that the play which Carl had written had become a success. The Enemy was attended by two large audiences. Much credit is given to the cast for their ability and for the work that they put into it. Coaches Howe and Smucker should be commended for the fine interpretation which they were able to put across through the cast.

THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN

On the first and second of December the Girls Glee Club gave one of the most charming operettas in print, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" by Aiken. The libretto is based on Browning's poem, of the same title. The story tells of the disappearance of all the children of Hamelin in the wake of the Piper. The Piper who had freed the town from a plague of rats and had been refused payment by the unprincipled councilmen, piped a tune that charmed all of the children thru the streets, across the fields and into an enchanted mountain, never to return. The repentant villagers mobbed the council and instituted a search thru the whole country, but in vain. The only comfort left Hamelin, was one little lame boy who had not been able to keep up with the procession.

The natural charm of the operetta was heightened by the scenery and costumes both of which were authentic and striking. Forrest Musser of the art department was responsible for the setting, a quaint mediaeval village square with the city gate at the back, and the Inn "Zum Goldener Hirsh" a busy gathering place to the right.

Mr. Sidney Hauenstein furnished a selected orchestra who with Wilhelmina Bixel at the piano, accompanied the performances. The whole was ably coached and directed by Miss Ruth Krehbiel, director of the Girls Glee Club.

COMMENCEMENT

Commencement week is always looked forward to at Bluffton as a week of festivals. A very elaborate program has been worked out by the authorities of the college and should offer a full program for all who attend. The graduating class of this year takes with it thirty-six of the students who have guided us since our entrance to college.

We are indeed greatly indebted to them for their service to us and for the contributions that they have made to their Alma Mater. It is our sincere desire that as they take their respective places in the outside world that they do not forget us and that they return often and watch our progress here.

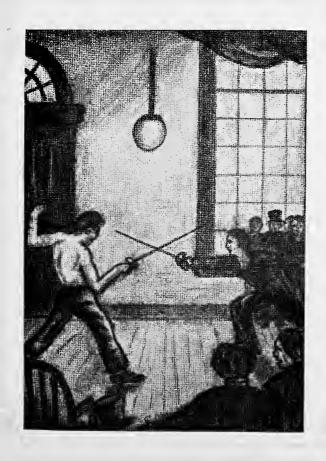

A. C. BURCKY
Head Athletic Coach

Beaver athletics have attained high standards in the past few years. This state of incline we believe is due to the untiring efforts and the persistant zeal of our Coach, A. C. Burcky. He is the one most admired by the students because he always strives to give them the best that his experience can offer.

His high ideals are exemplified in the true sportsmanship exhibited by the teams that he has turned out. He is always out to win but never to sacrifice any of the characteristics of a good sport for a victory. His ultimate aim is a training for leadership, that will be of service when we go out to fight the battles of life. We are very fortunate in having such a noble and inspiring man to lead us in our athletic program, which is an important factor in our campus life.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON

It cannot be denied by anyone that Bluffton had a very successful season in football this year. The success of the team cannot be laid to any one player in particular, but the team was composed of eleven men who never stopped fighting until the gun was fired. Perhaps, the greatest factor in the success of the Beavers was the excellent physical condition of the entire squad, which was due largely to the rigged training which they were forced to undergo during the season.

Two injuries crippled the entire team for some time, but the team was determined and in spite of the loss of Moyer and Conrad they did wonderful things. Moyer, was not able to return for the entire season, but Conrad, our flashy back, soon patched himself up and got into the game again.

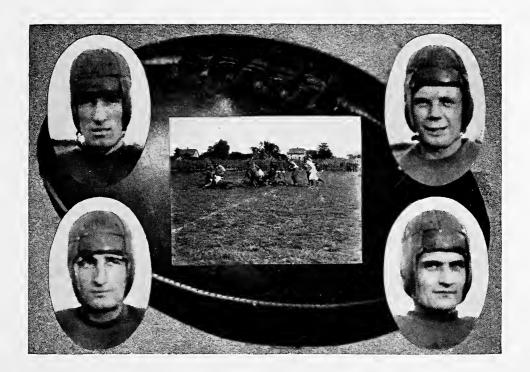

An abundance of new material was found in the Freshman class this year and several of them saw action during most of the season. Their greatest contribution to the team will be in the next few years when they will form the nucleus around which other teams will be built.

The team can be commended for the excellent head work exhibited and for their ability to gain ground in the open field. They were always able to gain greater yardage than their opponents and had the name of having a strong line. They were able to break even with their opponents in the number of victories which was exceptionally well for this seasons schedule.

Coach Burcky has said that although it is the lightest team that he has put into the field, this years team was the fastest one that he has ever had. This explains why they were respected by their opponents as a dangerous crew.

Probably the greatest victory was the one at Bowling Green where the conference champions, whose line had not been crossed all season bowed in defeat by a score of 12-6. It was in this game that Vern Conrad made his last sensational run of his college football career as he crossed the Bowling Green line for the second touchdown scored against them that day and also that season.

We are expecting great things to happen next year from those upon which the honor falls. There is a great deal of material from this year that is very promising and, of course, we do not want to forget that the incoming class makes its usual contribution which is highly appreciated.

IRVIN CONRAD Center Weight 160

Try as they might, Irvin can't be hemmed in. He got through for his man every time. As captain of this years team he strategically out-guessed the opposing brains. He has for four years played with the Beavers and has been a tower of strength in their line. His spirit courage and fight make him a real leader and what is more a gentleman. His place will indeed be hard to fill.

EMERY SEARS Guard Weight 175

Emery is another of our Sucker State fighters. He is a real scrapper and contributed a great deal to bolstering the Beaver line. Opponents, after unsuccessful attempts, decided to make their gains elsewhere. It was Sears last year here and his plugging will be missed.

ROLAND SWANK End Weight 155

Rolly was the little prodigy of the Beaver squad. On defense two opponents could never keep him from his man. He kept the thrill in the game by his sensational receiving of passes. Swankie was all-conference end this season and is captain elect for next year. One hundred and fifty-five pounds that hit like two thousand one hundred and fifty-five, this fighting end will lead our team thru one of our hardest seasons.

GLEN HILTY Halfback Weight 150

Another of our boys from Pandora. Glen's energy has no bounds for he makes a tremendous success of anything he tackles and football is no exception. He is light but fast as lightning and time after time tore around the ends for considerable gains, pushing the Beavers on to victory. This was his final year for Bluffton and his absence will be very evident.

CAPITAL U, VS BLUFFTON AT COLUMBUS

Revenge for previous defeats by the university gridders was sweet for the Burckymen. There was no question as to the superiority of the Beaver combination. Outweighing their opponents, they exhibited a powerful offensive drive which, coupled with a stubborn defense, had Capital completely outclassed with the exception of a brilliant spurt at the beginning of the third period.

The Beaver line provided a rugged defense and the backfield machine, with Conrad at full, Cunningham barking the signals, and Geiger and Mohr at the half back positions, functioned well nigh perfectly.

Bluffton scored first when, near the end of the first half a pass from Cunningham to Swank netted six points.

At the beginning of the second half, Capitol threatened with a consistent aerial attack, but the punch needed to score was lacking.

In the third quarter Russ Close playing tackle scooped up a Capitol fumble and carried the ball across the line.

Early in the final period Cunningham tossed a pass to V. Conrad for the last touchdown of the game. The Lutherans made a desperate attempt to score but the final gun found the ball on Bluffton's 30 and the score 18-0.

CEDARVILE COLLEGE AT BLUFFTON

In one of the most spectacular football games ever witnessed by Bluffton grid fans, Bluffton college defeated Cedarville 19-12. Bluffton took the ball from the kick off and never halted until Cunningham carried the ball across the line. Every part of the team was functioning like a machine. Gaining the ball on a fumble they again worked goalward, with Hilty and Conrad winding in and out of the holes. carried the ball across the second time on a four yard line plunge. V. Conrad place kicked to make the score 13-0 for Bluffton. Up to this time Adair, the downstate fleet foot had but little chance. Cedarville in their turn took the pigskin down the field just as consistently as had Bluffton in the first quarter, making the score 13-6 at the half. But all was as well as the score indicated. Vern Conrad was seriously injured before the half ended; this laid him out for the next two games. Bluffton now resorted to the aerial route. Cunningham, one of the best passers in the northwestern Ohio Conferenc, proved his worth to the team in this role in the second half. Adair had returned a punt for seventy yards to make the count 13-12. Their try for point was blocked but they were too dangerously near with Adair doing his stuff. After carrying the ball within scoring distance twice Cunningham passed to Swank across the goal line for the final touch-down of the game, "Roly" made a spectacular catch picking the ball away from three Cedarville men. This game showed just how much our Sterling lad meant to the team. He was always good for a gain in strategic points. His threat was sorely missed in the two games that followed.

RUSSEL CLOSE Tackle Weight 173

It was no surprise when the Bowling Green man placed Russ on the all Conference team for the second consecutive year. Close played a whale of a game at tackle, both offensive and defensive, and always displayed the spirit and determination to win. At Capital he picked up a Lutheran fumble and romped to a touchdown. His absence, too, will be keenly felt.

DIETRICH REMPLE Tackle Weight 203

This big boy, who hails form Reedly California made his weight tell. He crashed through the opponents line, opening up wide holes for our backs. On defense he was a veritable stone wall and stopped everything that came near. He will form the bulwark of the line next year.

TED. CUNNINGHAM Quarterback Weight 164

Only a Sophomore but two years a Varsity man, that's Ted. His accurate passing was a continual threat and yard gainer. Always cool at critical moments he called the play that fitted the situation. He not only directed team strategy but he carried the ball himself for the longest gains of the season. On defense he was of inestimable value.

IVAN GEIGER End Weight 180

Ike is a Bluffton boy and came out for a backfield position, but when Moyer was forced to remain idle because of injuries, he was sent in to fill his shoes. Anyone who watched the Beavers perform this year can tell you how ably he did it, especially in the Home-coming game with Findlay. He received due recognition by being placed on the all conference team.

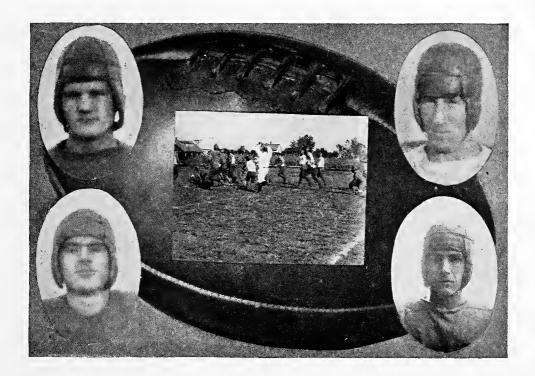

TOLEDO UNIVERSITY AT BLUFFTON

It was indeed a hard game to lose after the splendid showing the team had made. An intercepted pass and a fumble on Toledo's five yard line spelled defeat for the Beavers. The Rockets from the Lake City were unquestionably outplayed in every period and phase of the game. Outside of their fifty yard run with the intercepted pass, they made only sixty yeards during the entire encounter. Bluffton gained two hundred and ninety-five yards with sixteen first downs while Toledo was advancing the ball one hundred ten yards with only five first downs. Toledo scored in the first quarter on a freak play. Cunningham was attempting to pass. Just as the ball left his hand a Toledo linesman knocked it into the air, and to the back of Cunningham. Another Toledoan who happened on the spot just at the critical moment caught the stray ball and ran fifty yards through an open field for a touchdown. In the second quarter Bluffton plunged the line and passed to take the ball to the one foot line. Here another attempted plunge by Mohr was frustrated by the air tight front set up by the opposing team. The half ended soon after with Bluffton in possession of the pall on the eighteen yard line. The Rockets chose to kick off the second half and the Beavers went thru the opposing line as if it were a sieve but they were halted again when there was only eleven yards to go. After several exchanges of punts, Bluffton again started from their own offense and carried the pigskin for sixty-two yards before they could be halted. After several exchanges and punts the game ended with the Rockets victorious 6-0. The fans indeed saw a great exhibition of a plunging team but it lacked the variation usually added by the other Sterling twin, Vern Conrad who was injured.

DEFIANCE VS BLUFFTON AT DEFIANCE

This proved to be the hardest fought battle of the season. Bluffton, handicapped by injuries fought an uphill battle, but the yellow jackets had all the breaks in their favor and the final score 13-0 for Defiance was ideal for a Defiance homecoming.

Coach Burcky started a new combination and the yellow jacket immediately opened up a smashing line attack which netted 5 first downs and a touchdown. The kick was good and the score was 7-0. Burck'y warriors then carried the ball to the Defiance 22 yard line and lost it just as the initial period ended. The second and third periods were punting duels between Cunningham and Archambault, neither side being able to come within scoring distance. The final period was again exciting and the Tiskilwa proteges released a smashing attack and pushed the yellow jackets back to their 9 yard line only to lose the ball on downs. Defiance punted out of danger and with only a minute left to play a Defiance man intercepted a Beaver pass and romped to a touchdown, making the final score 13-0. This game was Williams first and he filled the place at half back very ably. Conrad, Cunningham and Hilty played their usual fast, consistent game and took advantage of every opportunity to score ground. The Beavers excelled the yellow jackets in first downs 13-8, and also in yardage gained but they lost when they failed to keep the ball when within scoring distance.

O. KENNETH FRETZ Guard Wt. 175

O. Kenneth hails from "Pnnsylvania". It was his first year in grid warfare but he had the brawn and the brain for the position. Opponents but wasted their time trying to go thru him. He never to do his bit when an opening was to be made on his side of the line. With a year of experience back of him, we know that we will have at least one good guard next season.

ROY MOHR Fullback Weight 150

Mohr hails from Illinois and must be cornfed for he is all brawn and is solid as a rock. As a line plunger he did splendid work. In the Cedarville game he dived through for a touchdown. On defense, his steady backing up of the line proved his ability. We expect much of Roy in the three years to come.

VERN CONRAD Halfback Weight 145

Vern playing his fourth year as the important cog in Coach Burcky's Football machine, was again the most outstanding and brilliant back in the Conference. He was out of several games due to injuries but he came back strong and those who saw it will never forget how he ran for the second touchdown at Bowling Green. It is needless to say that he won a berth on the all Conference team.

CHARLES BURKHART Halfback Weight 170

If you have ever watched Charlie for a few minutes in a game, you'll know he means no good to the opponents. Just as with General Thomas, he struck slow but with the force of a sledge hammer. The Thundering Herd is more easily stopped. In the Bowling Green game we saw Burky plunge through their heavy defense for gain after gain.

FINDLAY VS BLUFFTON AT BLUFFTON

The Beavers made Home-coming Day a huge success, despite the cold weather, when they walloped Barnharts men 25-0.

The game started with a bang, Cunningham carrying the ball across on the third play. Findlays only real threat came shortly afterwards when they completed a long forward pass that put the ball on the Bluffton 25 yard line, where they lost it on 3 incomplete passes and an unsuccessful line plunge. The second period was decidedly in favor of the Bluffton boys, for the ball was played within Findlay's 40 yard zone the entire quarter. The Beavers lost the ball twice on the 8 yard line and once on the three yard line but Conrad finally went thru the team for the second touch-down. A little later, just before the half ended, Cunningham took the pig skin across for the third tally. This time the try for point was good and the score stood 19-0.

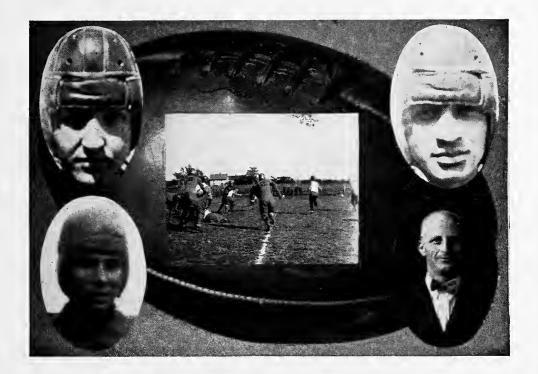

As the second half opened, Swartz, Hilty and Burkhart went in for Conrad, Mohr and Williams. This period was well balanced, the ball remaining in midfield most of the time.

In the last quarter the Findlay center threw the ball over the punters head, making it first down on the one yard line for Bluffton. From there Conrad easily added 6 more points making the final score 25-0. In favor of the Beavers.

V. Conrad, almost completely recoverd from his injuries, made long gains around the flanks of the Findlay line. Cunningham also made some nice runs via the same route. The Beavers line proved very effective, for many times the Big Orange plays were thrown for losses. Burcky's Gridders did their share in making Home-Coming Day a success.

BOWLING GREEN AT BOWLING GREEN

Bowling Green had the record of being the only undefeated team in Ohio, not once had their goal line been crossed all season. The Beavers took the challenge and handed them the short end of a 12-6 verdict. No more thrilling game was seen by the Bluffton delegation. It was a clean hard fought game all the way through but the Bluffton warrior's seemed to have the edge on the upstaters. A neatly executed fake play gave Bluffton its first score in the initial period when Cunningham carried across the ball which the opponents thought belonged to Conrad. This however followed two long runs by Vern and Ted from the Beavers twelve yard line. Every member of the team was hitting on all four's and their plays worked with machine-like precision. Bowling Green on their part found our line practically impenetrable and their offense consisted of an unceasing barrage of lateral and forward passes. Five in a row were completed. Bluffton too tried the lateral pass and in the third period a B. G. man snatched one of these from the hands of Vern Conrad and ran for a touch-down. Their try for point was blocked and the score stood at six all. This mishap did not dishearten the team but made it necessary that they show their best general-ship of grid warfare. The Beaver fans were breathless as B. G. carried the ball to the seven yard line on consecutive downs. But the line held and Lightman was thrown for a loss on the fourth down. Now in the final period, Bluffton has worked back from their seven yard line into B. G.'s territory. A long pass from Cunningham to Williams put us within thirty-five yards of goal. Williams carried the ball on a fake play for ten more yards and then Vern Conrad closed his career in a most fitting manner when he ran twenty-five yards evading three or four tacklers for the winning touchdown. The game soon ended with the score 12-6. Bowling Green has been beaten and their line crossed twice. Their Homecoming was a bit disappointing while the Beaver's "homecoming" was most gratifying in all respects. The winning of this game gave us four victories and two losses for the seasons record.

NOAH BLOSSER Guard Weight 175

He was only a Freshmen but nevertheless a necessary one for the team. He was a consistent plugger and this no doubt is the reason he was able to make his letter. Noah has that fighting spirit that keeps a team going. With three more years before him he should should become a permanent fixture on the team.

DON SWARTZ Halfback Weight 155

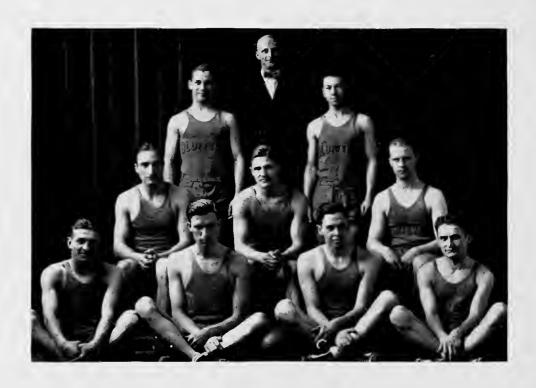

Columbus sent to us a young man by the name of Swartz. He was a halfback whose fighting spirit meant much to the team. On offense he whirled and twisted for yardage and on defense he was veritably a bear as line supporter. At times he even furnished the guiding intelligence as quarter-back. Don will not be with us next year, and we shall miss him.

MERVIN SPRINGER End Weight 150

For four years "Paavo" of the sucker state stuck with the game. Sprained arms and ankles discouraged him not in the least, and he had his share of them. Fast on his feet he was always on the spot at the psychological, critical and other moments. Although not playing as much as some of the others, we need more men of his calibre in Beaver athletics.

COACH BURCKY

Coach Burcky is the man to whom should go all the praize for the success of this year's football team. He is devoting all of his time to Beaver athletics and as a result has done some wonderful things for Bluffton. All of the men respect Coach Burcky and think of him as a regular pal.

ARDEN MOYER, Captain Center Souderton, Pa.

"Ard" after having played on the team for two years was elected captain of the 1927-27 Beavers, which position he filled with merit. He played a hard and consistent game during the entire season. He has a specialty of intercepting passes and he has the eye of an eagle when it comes to getting into the right place at the right time. He is a natural leader and has the ability to promote team work. In addition to this, he always gets his share of points and Conference honors. Moyer will be with us again next year.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON

Looking back over the cage events of the season we find that at the beginning Coach Burcky had four letter men and an entirely new reserve squad. However, the Beavers started off the season with a rush by decisively defeating the Superior Motor Coach Co. from Lima in the first game and Antioch in the second. These games gave the Coach a chance to try out some of his material and they also showed that the Beavers were going to have another real basketball team.

One of the most exciting games of the season this year was the one with Toledo when the Purple and White trounced the Rockets by the score of 26-25. In this game there was a continuous fight for the lead. Several times it changed from one team to the other, but, finally after what might be called the most defensive game of the season, the Beavers were ahead.

The very next evening the Bluffton fans had the privilege of witnessing the drubbing given the Ohio Northern crew in their own floor. That evening the Beaver combination was working perfectly and as a result our old rivals were forced to bow to the flashy Burcky outfit as their superiors.

Another of the very exciting games played this year was the one with Bowling Green here. Although we did not win this game, the crowd felt that they had received their money's worth and that they had seen some fast basketball. We must not forget the last game of the season played with our old rivals at Findlay college. They always put up an interesting battle and one cannot call the season complete without having witnessed this game.

With four letter men for next year together with the new material that shows up next Fall, Bluffton should continue her brilliant record of the past seasons.

WILLIAM WILLIAMS

Forward

Gomer, Ohio

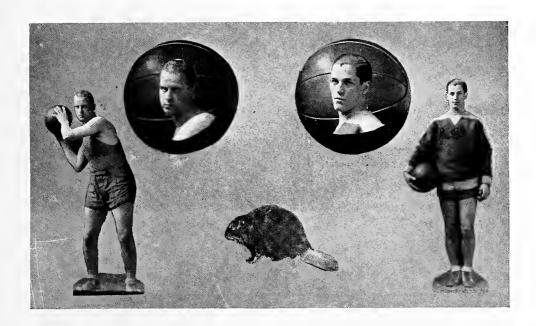

On the basis of last year's performance, much was expected of Bill this year. From the very first game it was evident that our expectations were well founded, for he came through with a vengeance. Many were the opposing guards who dreaded to see him come marching down the floor, vainly tried to stop him, only to see the ball inevetably swish thru the net. He was not only high point man on the team but was equally effective on defense.

EMERY SEARS

Forward

Tiskilwa, Illinois

Emery was not a professional basketball player when he came out this year, but he is a hard worker and has the determination that won him a berth on the team. He always played the same steady game. He was interesting to watch as he went about breaking up passes for his opponents. He always seemed to be where they didn't want him. Often he came through with unexpected shots which kept the game on ice for his team. In other words, Sears has that Beaver spirit which he exemplified in every game.

WARREN DURKEE

Guard

Beaverdam, Ohio

Durkee certainly has that "old fight". He is right there when it comes to getting the rebounds. Many times he has changed a defensive game into an offensive one by recovering the ball as it came to his end of the floor. He was also sure of at least one long shot a game and his attempts were all accompanied by shrieks from feminine admirers. It certainly takes a wary man as sentinel when left to guard three opponents but Warren is just the man for the place. He'll be with us yet another year.

TED CUNNINGHAM

Guard

Marion, Ohio

Ted, playing his second year of varsity basketball, displayed a remarkable defensive game, breaking up the opponent's pet plays innumerable times. His offensive work also contributed greatly to the success of the team, for every game was featured by several beautiful long ones from the center of the floor. His performance was always speedy, clean and consistent. We are looking forward to a great year for Ted on the hardwood.

TRACK

Very early in the Spring, even before the snow is completely gone, a large group of cinder path artists begin their training for greater honors that are to be heaped upon their Alma Mater. Most of these are seniors for it is around them as a nucleus that our entire team is built. Looking back to last year and to its success including the conference championship we can receive that confidence which is necessary to attain great heights this year.

Headed by our fleet-footed speed-boy, Conrad, and aided by his classmates, the team entered the new season with great enthusiasm. On April the twenty-first, a team was sent to the Ohio Relays, there to compete against the best of the country.

The second event that took place was the triangular meet here between, Ohio Northern, Bowling Green and Bluffton. The Beavers were again unable to aver the strength of the Poar Bears and allowed them to carry off the majority of the honors with 74 points. Bluffton come in second with 34 points and Bowling Green finished with 24.

On the fifth of May in a dual meet with Toledo we were again found to be of superb strength by copping the meet with a score of 72 to 54. Here a very strange thing happened when Verne who was seemingly winning the century with no great difficulty was unexpectedly nosed out of first place in the final stride. This Toledoan will make things interesting in the meets that are to follow. At Bowling Green we began to realize our weak points in long distance and weight events, and as a result lost the first meet to conference competition in the history of Bluffton College

Our strongest events this year will be the dashes, hurdles, high and broad jumps and the pole vault. Risser has won the pole vault in both of the dual meets that we have had so far and has also been improving very nicely in the high jump. The Freshman class has also made a valuable contribution this year. Mervin Hilty has shown considerable ability in the dashes. Ivan Geiger is another short distance man who makes a very good running mate for Verne.

In summarizing, we can only look forward to another successful season in track. Besides taking our share of victories, some new men will be given experience in preparation for the vacancies that they must fill, due to the retiring force of Seniors.

OHIO RELAY TEAM

On a track of mud and water, the Bluffton college relay team splashed and sprinted their way to fourth place in the Annual Ohio Relays. This showing is the result of a group of hard workers formed into a well balanced team. They should be given due recognition and praise by every loyal Bluffton College athletic booster.

The team is composed of the three veterans, Klassen, Conrad and Springer, along with the fleetfooted Hilty. He is only a Frosh but a ably took care of the position left vacant from last year.

The team will be crippled considerably at the close of the season. In fact, it will be nearly wiped out of existence as Conrad, Springer and Klassen are lost by graduation.

Geiger and V. Conrad tryed their skill in the century. Vern finished fourth out of a large number who entered. Geiger and Hilty will form a very good nucleus around which to build the team next year.

CONFERENCE RELAY TEAM

The same team that won in the Ohio Relays have been winning their conference meets. As this is the last year for three of the boys they will do all in their power to go through undefeated.

Mervin Hilty, the only underclassman on the team has been holding up his end of the task very well. He has not only been a consistent man in the 440 but Coach has found need of him on the straight-away also.

Each one of these men are main stays on the track team and much of our success this year depends on what they do in the remaining meets. This year, Springer, Irvin Conrad and Klassen are running for the last time. It is needless to say what they have meant to the track team and that it will take men of no mean ability to take their places.

VARSITY BASEBALL

The prominence of baseball on the Bluffton Campus is one made permanent by the history of the team that have done their duty. Last year the success of our teams was at its height when the Beavers finished the season with only one defeat and the Conference championship in the bargain. With such college diamond stars as Howe, Williams and Schwartz always in the lineup the moral of the teams was never seen to run at a low ebb.

This year Coach Burcky has to whip in a new pitching staff. This, of course, hits the team pretty hard. Notwithstanding this fact, the team hit it off on the right foot and won their first game 9-6. Toledo University was able to win from us in the second game by a score of 5 to 4. The team has a very heavy schedule this year and has found some stiff competition in Bowling Green and Defiance. Otterbein college is a new rival in Beaver athletics and an interesting game is expected.

Although we cannot expect a conference championship this year we will feel that the season has been very successful if we can keep up good spirits and show the other colleges that they will have to work for their money.

The return tilts should result in a different score as the new team will have had the advantage of the experience gained in the first round. Coach Burcky is hard to beat when it comes to coaching baseball so we are very optomistic as to what can be built out of the material that we have for this year.

Williams is serving his team in a three-fold capacity, being used where he is needed the most. A neat little short stop was lost when Remi Hilty graduated last year, but the position is being handled very capably by Gerber, who transferred from Wooster, where he has had some experience at this post. "Jim" Musser is working hard in the pitcher's box and he has some ability too, which will serve his team in a very respectable manner before he graduates.

There is a large squad out every night plugging away at the "pill." Out of this bunch of men ought to come another team which will make their opponents sit up and take notice as they watch the ball sailing over their heads for two and three baggers. We believe that baseball will be a consistent success at Bluffton.

TENNIS TEAM

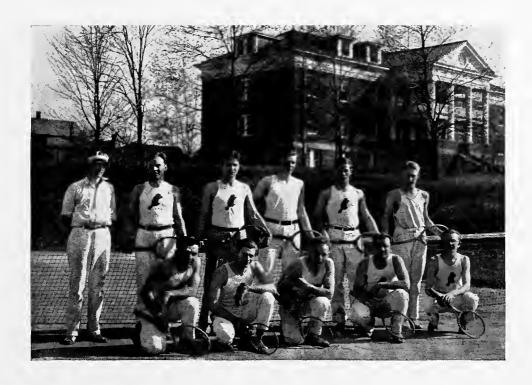

Under the careful and consistent tutelage of Coach H. W. Berky, the Bluffton College tennis team developed from a mediocre team to one worthy of honorable mention and praise.

The team began with a handicap due to poor weather conditions, and furthermore, to the absence of our star performer, Cunningham. The first few matches were lost recause of a lack of confidence in their ability as amateurs. Most of the men have had little or no experience in inter-collegiate competition, therefore one can readily see what the installation of Cunningham into the group d.d for them.

With Cunningham, Hilty and Steiner playing singles, and Rickert and Kanagy together with Cunningham and Hilty in doubles, we have a combination which seems to be headed for a Northwestern championship.

The first match was with Findlay. The boys put up a good fight but it seemed that they just lacked the punch to put it over, and Findlay won 4-1. In the next match with Toledo one could see an improvement over the former tilt, but a little nervousness was still evident as they came up against such stiff competition. Here is where the tide changed and the Beavers have not witnessed a defeat since. The season is more than half finished and we believe that the team will have a very successful outcome.

The graduating class takes only two men in this particular sport and there are many others looking for positions. The team next year will have had advantage of experience and Bluffton ought to experience another of the teams that they used to produce back in the good old days of Scheid and Bixel.

GIRL'S ATHLETICS

The second year of an enlarged program of girl's athletics is being carried through successfully. Athletic activities are controlled indirectly by the regular athletic board, but the definite program was organized by a women's faculty committee of which Miss Moon is chairman, and Evelyn Niswander as student coach, and Eunice Conrad, the hiking club manager.

Every girl in college is eligible to work for a girl's "Varsity B" Proficiency in a sport is desired, but not an absolute essential. A letter is earned with fifty points, which can be obtained in various ways by participating in the prescribed words of a number of sports.

The schedule of points from which to select this year was, hiking—thirty; basket-ball—tifteen; baseball—ten; track—ten; tennis—for twelve hours work and participation in the tournament—fifteen points, for an additional twelve hours practice—ten points; and for reading and outlining selected books—not more than ten points, each book counting five points.

No intercollegiate games were played, interest being maintained by each sport on its own merits. Hiking was carried on throughout the entire school year. Basketball was the early winter sport, and was followed by indoor baseball, which was concluded before spring vacation. Evelyn Niswander was the active coach of these activities.

After spring vacation, with the advent of more desirable weather the outdoor sports were started, with a large number of girls playing tennis, and a somewhat smaller group out for track practice.

Hiking, while a means of obtaining points for a "Varsity B" is organized as a distince activity, with Eunice Conrad as upperclass manager for 27-28. The requirements for credit this year were to hike fifty miles a month, four months of each semester. Not more than one hike can be taken in one day, and this must be not less than two miles and not more than four miles. Under this plan the girls are kept out doors much of the time.

A "hiking B" is presented to all members completing the year's mileage who do not desire to earn the twenty additional points necessary for a "Varsity B". To freshmen, and other members hiking of the first year an hour of college credit in physical training is given.

With this arrangement of activities an appeal was made to several interests, and many girls found it worth their while to spend their leisure time in organized athletics. It is felt that this program for girls is a great asset to their college life. It provides worth while sports for recreation for most of the girls, thus sponsoring better health, team work and good sportsmanship.

The following girls have earned a "Varsity B" since the inauguration of this program;

ATHLETICS AT BLUFFTON 1927-28

In summarizing the athletic activities of the year most of us are interested in a summary which will bring to our minds in future years some of the pleasures and pains of mind and body, which has been experienced in the victories and defeats of our teams, for, to many of us our team is our fame. As the present swiftly changes into the future we shall muse with pleasure on the gridiron, court, the diamond, and the track, thinking of the great battles won and lostand the training received there.

The year 1927-28 as a whole has been one worthy of mention. The football season opened with brilliant prospects of a winning team. Just a few weeks after practice began Bluffton defeated the Polar Bears in a practice game 8-0. The first scheduled game was at Columbus where Bluffton defeated Capitol University to the tune of 18 to 0. Then came the hard fought game with Cedarville College in which Bluffton's star back was seriously injured. Never-the-less, Bluffton defeated the Southerners 19 to 12. Although the entire Bluffton Campus was saturated with great enthusiasm and the team went onto the field in high spirits Bluffton was forced to defeat in their next encounter with Toledo. Due to the alertness of one of the Toledo ends, they were able to score the only touchdown of the game through an intercepted pass. This was followed score the only touchdown of the game through an intercepted pass. by a defeat at the hands of the Defiance crew, who took advantage of Bluffton's injured team Perhaps, the best game of the season was on Homecoming Day when the Beavers triumphed over the Big Orange by a score of 25 to 0. Another thriller was the game with Bowling Green, when Bluffton crossed their goal line twice. This gave Pluffton four victories against two defeats as the final record of the season.

Three of the Beaver men were placed on the first all conference team, Close at tackle, Swank at end, and V. Conrad at halfback. Cunningham, Geiger and I. Conrad were placed on the second all star lineup.

The basketball season opened with a determination to end with nothing less than a Conference Championship. Although, these hopes were blasted when Bowling Green defeated the Beavers in two closely contested battles, yet, Bluffton was assured of second place in the victory over Toledo on our own court. In the remaining Conference games the Burckymen triumphed over Findlay and Defiance in both contests. The Bluffton Beavers engaged in some fast competition when they played schools of such high calibre as Northern University, Antioch, Wittenberg, Wilberforce University and Dayton University. Never before in the history of Bluffton has basketball been on such a high plane as it has attained this year. Several all stars were chosen by the Conference officials, including Moyer. Cunningham and Williams.

The close of the basketball season brought on the spring sports. Baseball opened with a lot of new material ready to fill the gaps left vacant by last years graduates. With prospects only fair Bluffton opened the season by defeating Findlay 9 to 6. The remaining games with Toledo, Bowling Green, and Defiance were lost due to the inability of the Beavers to hit, when hits meant runs.

Track is still one of Blufftons high lights. The first meet with Ohio Northern, Bowling Green, and Bluffton, was won by the Polar Bears by quite a large score.

Bluffton, however, came through for second place.

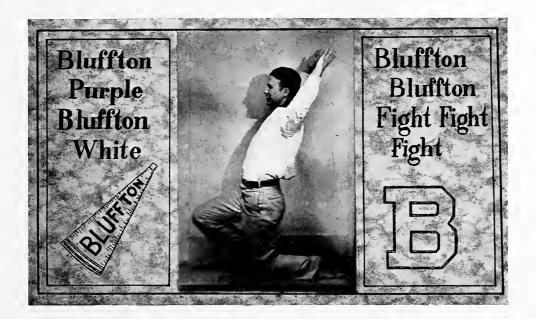

The following week the Toledo Rockets brought a strong team here, but were forced to return home with a 82 to 54 defeat. The following week the Beavers met their first defeat in the conference at the hands of Bowling Green by a close margin of 62 to 64. And yet, there remains two meets including the one with Findlay and the Conference meet at Toledo.

Perhaps the least attended sport at the college is tennis. Getting away to a bad start the Beavers worked themselves up to a team of enviable recognition who have good prospects of a Conference Championship.

The most encouraging fact of all in reviewing the Beaver athletic progress is knowing that athletes are coming to Bluffton without financial inducements and that scholarship is above that of the average student, indicating that the athletes are students and the students are athletes. Bluffton has not attempted to startle the country by producing teams far above her class, but has been content to build gradually and naturally and in such a way that no finger of suspicion can ever be pointed at her athletics or athletic policies.

> For when the great scorer comes To write beside your name, He will not write whether you won or lost, But how you played the game.

CHEER MASTER

Walt was elected cheer master early in the year by a popular vote of the student body. He had several assistants to help him but he seems to be the only one that has remained faithful to his job. It has been said that the cheering this year was better than any other year before. Probably, the greater success of the athletic teams has been due, in part at least, to this very fact. There seemed to be an increase in spirit throughout the student body this year and much of the credit must be given to our leader.

One definite thing that has been accomplished this year, as a result of this spirit, is the band that has been started to cheer the players on to victory. During the football season the band had a definite place in the cheering section and it always added the necessary inspiration and pep to the rest of the "rooters".

TO THE BEAVER ROOTERS

How dear to our heart is the regular Rooter
Who pays at the gate at the start of the game,
Who lays down his money and does it quite gladly
And thus helps the "Beavers" a balance to gain.
Who never says, "No Sir! I cannot afford it
My time is worth more and my soul has no need,
For pig skin encounter, which to me is insane."
How we welcome his presence as he joyously enters
To pull for the Beavers—to win if they can.
We outwardly thank him—we inwardly bless him—
The regular Rooter who enters the stands.

Coach A. C. Burcky.

THE GRAND REVUE

B. C. DICTIONARY

B. C.—Place close to nature with facilities for restoring pep and incidentally introducing a minimum amount of knowledge into the brain of each person listed in the college catalogue.

ROPP HALL—Charming bit of architecture situated on the banks of the Riley, the abode of fifty fair co-eds.

LINCOLN HALL—A necessarily substantial structure which protects three score and ten Knights from the ravages of the elements (at least during the hours from 3 to 7:45 A. M.

CHAPEL—Period during which day-dreams of the speakers become the night-mares of the students.

GLEE CLUB—Organization composed of a select few chosen because of their ability to make others suffer in silence.

LIT-Organization which apes Frats by rushing Frosh.

PREXY-He who is capable of making even the Seniors feel young and dumb.

PROF—One who generously imparts knowledge yet does not hesitate to ask for its return in blue hooks at the most inconvenient times.

STUDENT—A most unique specimen of humanity, capable of taking the highest scholastic and athletic honors and obeying all laws both written and unwritten, yet firmly refusing to yield to such temptations.

BLUE BOOK—A collection of scrap paper bound together into the semblance of a book, and sold for the convenience of the students. There are six types of the articles A, B, C, D, E, and F. For some unexplained reason the last three types are in the majority.

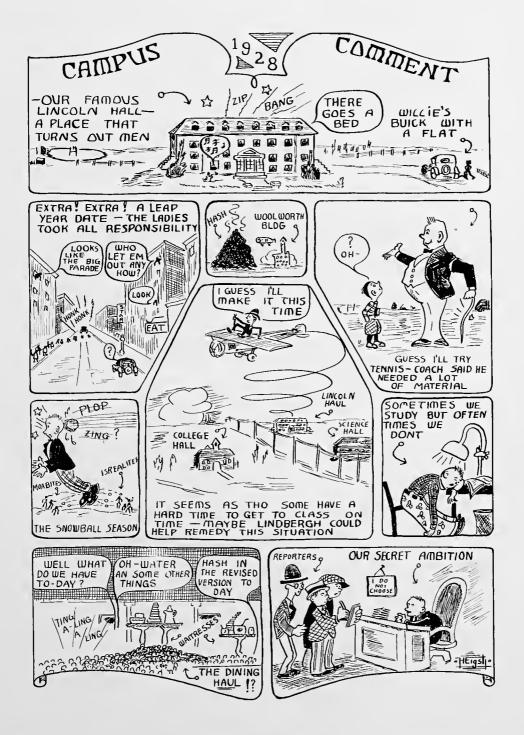

CO-ED—Derived from the two words "coin" and "education". The more "co" there is, the less "ed" there is. The "dash" was placed in between to show that the two cannot be mixed with any success. The name is usually applied in a general way to the female of the species "college student".

FLUNKING OUT—A humiliating noun synonymous with "stepping out", "getting your walking papers", etc. The more common form of the expression is "taking a leave of absence". One of the most frequent reasons for flunking out is forgetting to take a leave of absence in time.

UNEXCUSED CUT—A cheerful respite from the cold scrutiny of pedigogical eyes. Motto involvd—"Fear not for the future, weep not for the past."

DATE—Star Theatre via Krehbiel Bridge and, perchance, the Iron Lantern. Dating is the only all-year-round major sport on the campus. The game is played by young and old with equal zest.

CINDER PATH—A winding trail through the campus, shaded in summer and sheltered in winter; famous for its "dark" history (even in the light of the full Moon) of laughter and tears, proposals and refusals, in short, the most romantic place known to man.

"FOOLS"

An April Fool: a Ropp Hallite who expects a dollar narcissus from a five cent bulb.

Or for that matter, a May Fool: A man who thinks he'll be happier in the new flat than he was in the old.

And also a June Fool: a parent who hopes that a sheepskin will make a dullard less sheepish.

Not to speak of a July Fool: the patriot of powder whose nationalism is noise.

Adding the August Fool: the chap who fancies the girls admire him in a wet bathing suit.

With mention of the September Fool: who carries on his business during vacation.

Plus the October Fool: who buys a ready-made Jack 'O lantern instead of making a punkin' face.

Like-wise the November Fool: who is the voter staying at home, but bawling at the rotten government.

Listing also the December Fool: who hopes to satisfy an automobile generation with Christmas tree candles and pop-corn.

Continuing with the January Fool: the man who thinks his slate will wipe itself clean on New Year's.

And collecting the February Fool: the bald-head who dreams that any girl can fall in love with him.

Ending with the March Fool; the grouch who growls at the weather. Dry or wet or hot or cold, not a month but has its Fool.

"She's Not so Dumb"

"So they say we have no sense of humor? Well, the average man is proof enough that a great many women can take a joke."

"She's so keen on reducing that she's dropped her middle name. Beulah—you know, the land of milk and honey is anything but of low caloric value."

"So that's why we're "catty"? It says here in the paper—"a great majority of college women are afflicted with poor teeth, pyhorrea and pussp gums".

"What if we girls who innocently follow fashions are to be condemned as immodest? Imagine the scandal of five pairs of hoop-skirts climbing into a flivver!"

"AND THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU LAUGH"

Russel had a little Ford As everyone did know, But everywhere that Russel went It was not sure to go.

It took him to Ropp Hall one day, He ran to get the maid But when he tried to start the Ford It sat there in the shade.

He gave it one long, silent glare Then mumbled to himself They pushed it back to Lincoln Hall And there it's sitting yet.

Motor and the girl motors with you Walk, and she's not at home.

There was a young lady from Dorset
Came to college awearin' a corset
The sistern said "no"
But she said, "You can go,—
To keep my waist trim I must force it.

My little brother Willie How he sits and squirms We're going to take him fishing 'Cause he's got the-the—bait.

Little Miss Boone
Sat by the Lagoon
Areadin' her lessons and studyn'
Along came her Willie and sat on the hilly
And the way that they acted was silly.

There was an old woman who lived in Ropp Hall She had so many troubles it almost made her bawl She put up some signs and drew up some rules Now she could be dean of two or three schools.

There was a young man who wanted a date He went to Ropp Hall but was rather late And when he got there all the girls were out So all he could was go home and pout.

"Are there any questions?" asked Mr. Beidler.

"Yes, sir," replied Danner. "How do you calculate the horse power in a donkey engine?"

$ $ $ $ $ $ $

Stan.—"I sure told that girl what I thought of her."

Gotty-"And what did she say?"

Stan .- "She said she loved me, too."

$ $ $ $ $ $

College is just like a washing machine; you get out of it just what you put in but you'd never recognize it.

Dr. Smith-"Where was the Declaration of Independence signed?"

Russ Close (after waking up)—"At the bottoni."

$ $ $ $ $ $

"The other day," said Eigsti, "I painted a deal board in imitation marble with such effect that it sank immediately when thrown into the water."

"That's nothing," said J. Klassen. "Yesterday I hung a thermometer on the easel supporting my picture of the Polar Region and it fell at once to twenty degrees below zero."

"Go on," remarked Jim, "My portrait of Russel Close is so realistic that it has to be shaved every morning."

LaVaun to her small broher-"Bobby, what happened when the cow jumped over the moon?" Bobby: "Somebody got an idea for vanishing cream." S Sheetz: "I wonder why those horses jump around like that." Merl Lehman: "I suppose they feed them on buckwheat." § Neighbor-"Was your son home over the holidays?" Mr. Moyer-"Well, if he wasn't somebody else borrowed the car during Christmas week." B. H. S. Teacher-"1 call my two o'clock class the pullman class because it has three sleepers and an observation section." Dr. Epp-"Yes? I call my three o'clock Virgil class the pony express." A Tactful Hint Coming upon a football which the farmer's son had brought home from school, the rooster promptly called all the hens around him. "Now ladies," he said diplomatically, "I don't want to appear ungrateful, or raise any unnecessary fuss, but I do want you to see what's being done in other yards." Leslie G.—"Where is the steak on your menu?" Waiter (reading)—"There sir, sirloin steak a la carte." Leslie—"Well, wheel it in." There, little grapefruit, don't you cry, Cause when you do, it hits my eye.

Miss Moon (announcing a Lincoln Hall House Meeting)—"and I'd like every single man to be there."

Wib. Steiner assumed a questioning attitude and asked of the world in general, "What is home without a demand schedule?"

Prof. Berky, upon hearing the remark, brought forth an answer from his vast store of domestic wisdom, "To a man—Paradise."
